

Cars

BY:Grigor shaghoyan

What it does

Cars are useful in many ways one of them are for transportation it is very convenient and here are some reasons why, it can hold up to 10 people it is fast it can go far without needing fuel

What problem it solves

It solves the problem of transportation, it used to be a problem cause ketel were not cutting it they were very slow for example in the gold rush people took months to reach the west let alone california. But now with cars from new york to california would take under 2 days!

It was invented in

The car was invented in the january 1886

Invented by

The first car was made by a man named karl benz. Karl Friedrich Benz was a German automotive engineering. A part of Mercedes-Benz was named after him because he played a big part into making Mercedes-Benz what it is today.

Other inventions that came to due to cars

Some inventions that were made because of the car include seat belts for safety reasons air bag which is also for safety flashing turn signals and i'm not sure if this is an invention or not but driving rule books and driving rules in general.

Importances

Cars are very important because they are very useful convenient and they are a huge part of people's lives. Most people don't have a horse or train or boat they could use, bikes and scooters you can use them but people could only go 1 or 2 people at a time. so it's important to have cars because they are useful and convenient.